Our Silver

The Nautilus—an odd name—do you know why the first editor, a quarter of a century ago, chose it? The nautilus, a small snail-like animal, native to the New England coast, builds an addition to its shell each year, and moves out of its old home into this new and better one. What better image for the many-sided growth of a college, and for the year-book which traces this development. E.N.C. has builded "more stately mansions"—materially, scholastically, spiritually; for New England, for the church, and for God.

Anniversary

To

because for us her name is synonomous with the theme of our book, of our lives—with the spirit of Eastern Nazarene College—Holiness. Because through twenty-five years of publication her influence and guidance have been the molding forces behind the book as they have the college. Because her life has been as a light to our pathway, her standards an encouragement that we might study to show ourselves approved unto God; and because her example of what "living" Holiness should mean will ever stay with us as an earnest of what each of us may achieve.

We Dedicate

This Book

Forward . . .

Our watchword—our song, ours because we are the people who now are making Eastern Nazarene College what she has been and still is, a college primarily dedicated to God's will and service.

The 1947 Nautilus presents this college that is yours and mine. Here is a panorama of the multitude of things that go to make a school year complete. In years to come this will be your link with college days, with treasured friendships, with time-proven lessons learned in and out of the classroom. Above all, your link with the school where "Holiness Unto the Lord" was the desire, the goal and the achievement.

Holiness . . .

You'll find the spirit of Holiness manifested in every aspect of our college life—in the prof's pause for a prayer at the beginning of every class session; in the emphasis of the Student Council on spiritual activities equally as much as social; in student groups vitally active in saving souls; in that moment of heart-felt prayer before every game—for clean sport and a Christian spirit; and the personal help and close fellowship that each of us found at our class prayer meeting on Monday night. "Holiness Unto the Lord is our watchword and song."

ADMINISTRATION

The President's

Message

The college yearbook is a panoramic view of college life as the student sees it. This is why every year is as interesting as an unopened telegram, even to those who know what is here.

This year's staff has elected to paint the picture of E.N.C. under the over-all theme—"Holiness unto the Lord." This choice itself is sufficient to warm and encourage the hearts of those who have lived and sacrificed for this holiness college. But it is a never-ending task. Each year a new group of students must be introduced to the ideals and standards upon which we have built, and to all of us—old and young alike—with each passing year there come fresh implications and inferences for our lives with regard to holiness. The task of our college then is, "To present every man perfect in Christ Jesus." This is an unfinished task but a glorious one.

If this year's college annual gives you a glimpse of E.N.C. at this noble task of building holy character, then the labors of the editor and business manager with their staffs have been worth while, and if you can catch some of their enthusiasm you will discover that the investments of the years in this institution are now as always bringing forth rich dividends in consecrated lives.

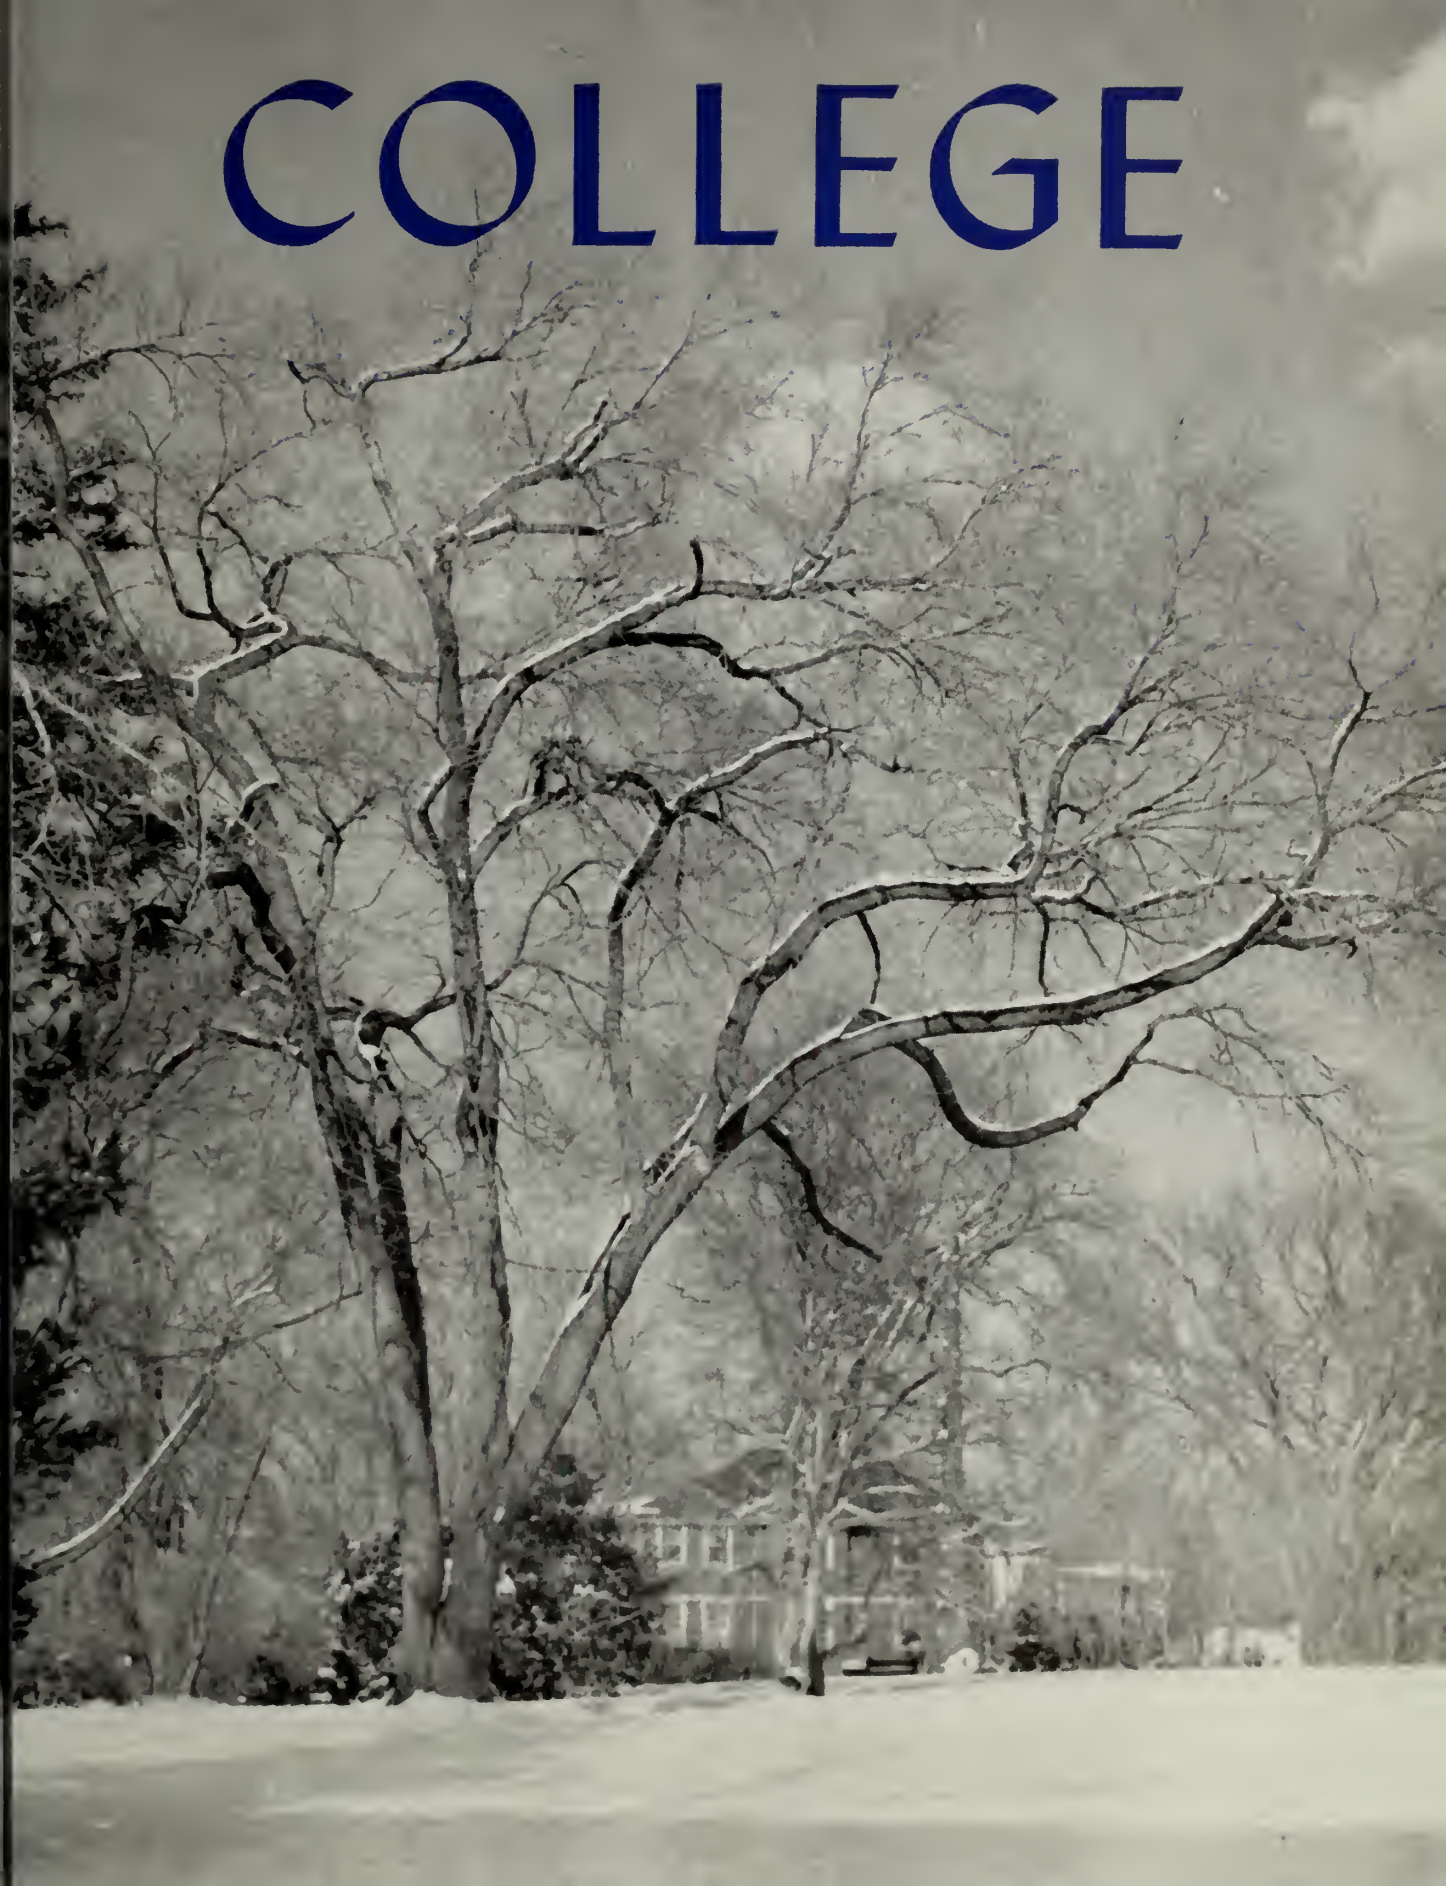
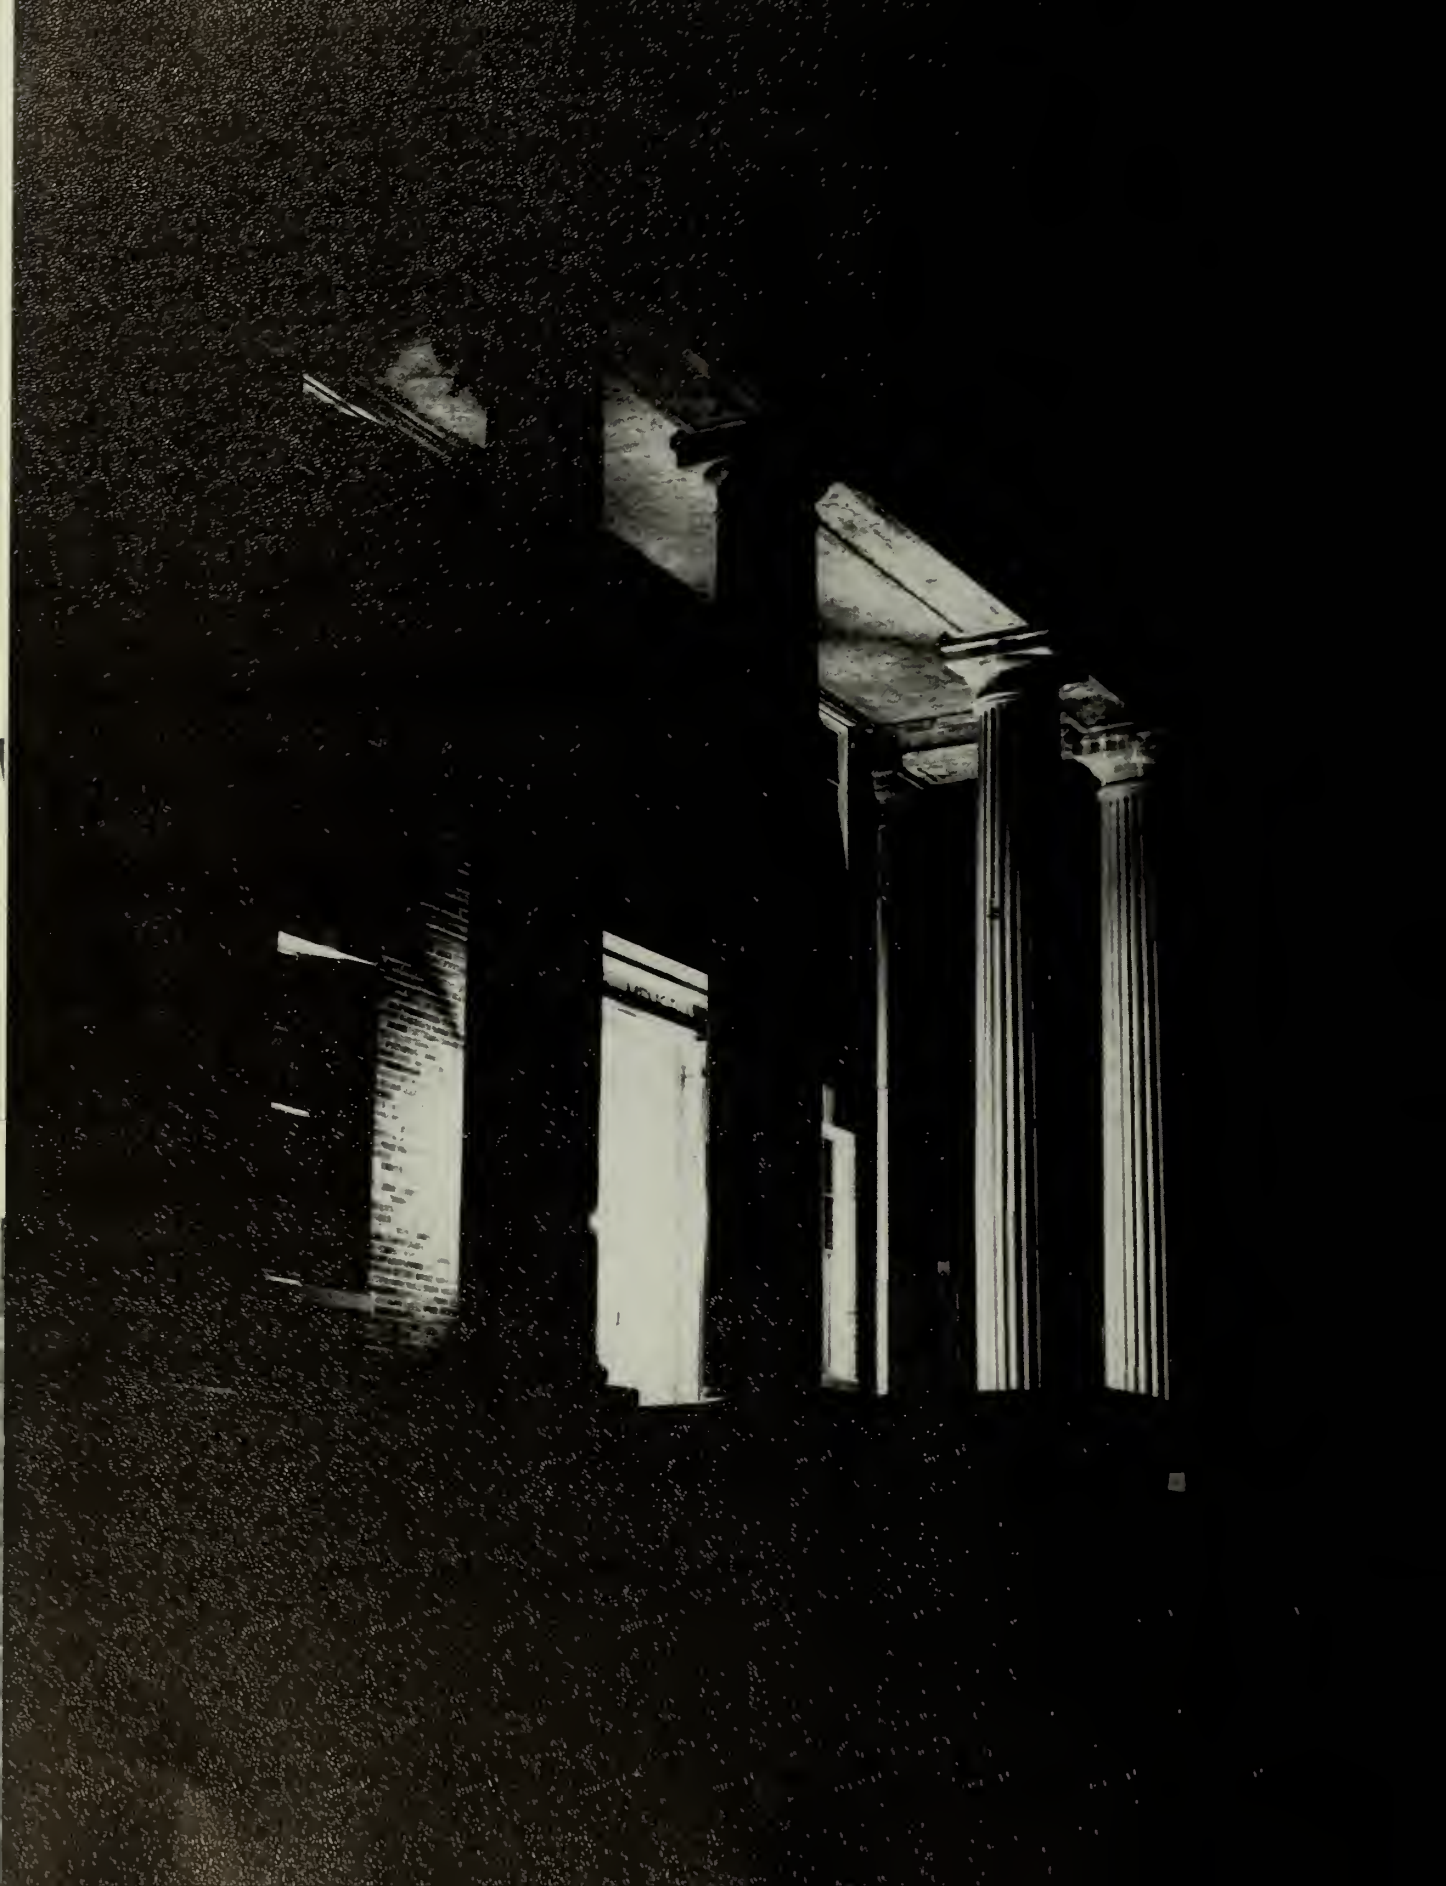
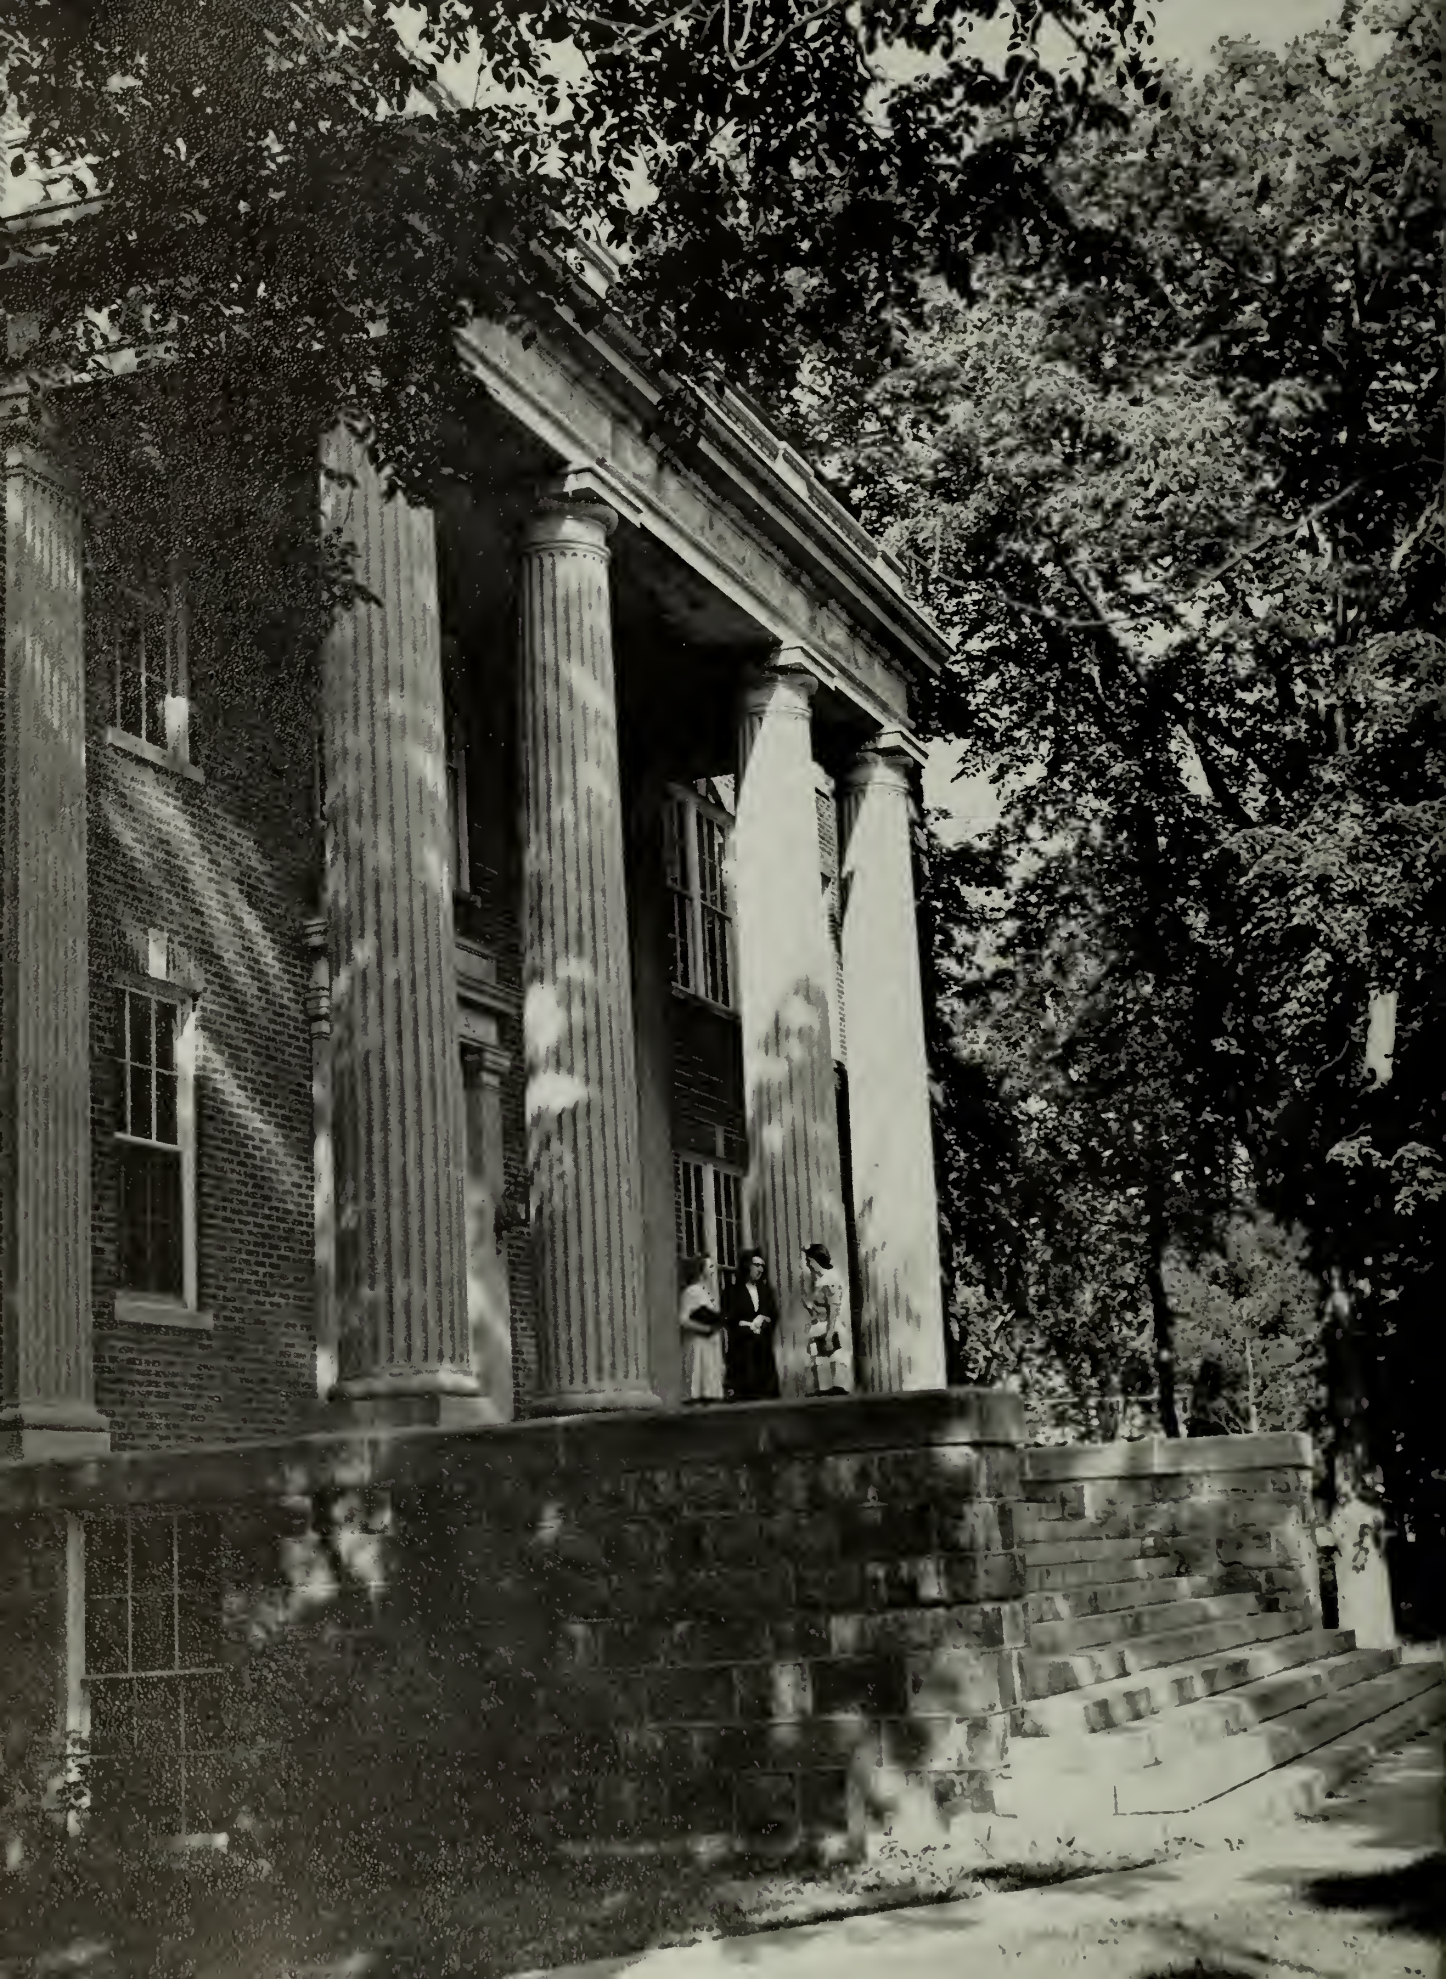
COLLEGE







Alma Mater

In New England stands a college
Near blue Quincy Bay,
E.N.C., our Alma Mater
Glorious for aye.
Laud her merits, Sing her praises,
Let our song ring free
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, O E.N.C.

Graceful branches lifted heavenward,
Suncrowned for our view,
Stand the elms upon our campus,
Reaching to the blue,
Shady walks beneath the foliage,
Flow'ring beauty rare;
Blessed by nature, how we love thee,
Alma Mater, Fair.

Clear her vision, high her purpose,
Lo, she stands serene;
And her faith is sure, undaunted,
Eastern Nazarene.
We will prove our strong devotion,
Loyal we will be;
True to God and Alma Mater,
True to E.N.C.

Council

The vocal apparatus of the Students' Organization is the Student Council. The council is a representative group which voices our opinions, expresses our thoughts, and generally promotes the welfare of our student body.

To pave the tennis courts has been the expressed desire of many students for several years. This year in co-operation with the Alumni Association, the Student Council aided by the "N" club and the three Sigma Delta societies, took the active part in getting the courts paved.

As a new feature, the council this year sponsored two Friday night programs. The one during the first semester had as its theme "The Story of Plastics"—we learned by lecture and demonstration some of the many wonders of the plastic industry. The Friday night program during the second semester was a sacred concert presenting the "Life of Christ," sung by Vesy Stemm, a former student of E.N.C.

Under the enthusiastic leadership of the vice-president of the Student Council the Fall Party with its rustic atmosphere, the Christmas Banquet with its seasonal festiveness, and the Valentine Party with its romance, were socially successful.

Our democratic spirit was demonstrated in the vigorous meetings of the student body, while our co-operative spirit was displayed by the joint council-faculty committee in the revision of the student handbook "Crimson and White."

With such a spirit, defeat was impossible.

Nautilus

RICHARD HAWK
Business Manager

Coming into the Nautilus room after it's all over but the signatures seems kind of like coming home again for us who have spent waking and sleeping hours in the office doing the thousand and one things that the "laity" never would suppose went into producing a representative "Nautilus." It was here in the first private office the yearbook has ever had that lights burned 'till far beyond midnight many more than a few nights; here that "Nauti," the little rascal, first began snooping around; here that the "dummy man," which is no insult, pored with editors over the layout of the pages; here where the write-ups for your clubs and societies were brought forth. We typed and re-typed and proofread by day and by dark: we took snapshots with our own Ansco camera and ran the official photographer to the point of turning gray overnight; we annoyed people by begging for nickels for phone calls. We worked together. In fact, it's hard to say just what official title belongs to what person —the editor did a little of everything and a lot of most things; the literary editors typed and passed judgments on candid snaps; the associate editor did a lot of associating with the other editors, and played at drawing, too. Only the business manager minded his own business solely, but he minded it exceptionally well.

Our Nautilus room was yours, too. It has belonged freely to all of us, and has homed the yearbook we freely give to you for whom it was made.

FRED HAYNES
Editor

Deadlines — headlines — printers — typists — and always the little editor, "Freddie" Haynes, make up the bi-weekly publication of E.N.C.—the "Campus Camera." Aided by Advisor Professor Spangenberg, Business Manager Oliver Williams and a large staff of columnists, artists, reporters, and typists, the "Campus Camera" is turned out representing the news and views of the college.

The paper serves a double purpose. It not only gives the school news, but also provides excellent opportunity for experience to students of Journalism and those interested in writing.

The spiritual inspiration received from Student Council President Bill Taylor's article "Seek Ye First," the smiles and chuckles that greet "Candid Camera," the interest shown in the sports page, and the "intellectual" look that comes when one reads Paul Kirkland's "History in the News" are only a few of the reactions experienced when an E.N.C.er reads the "Camera."

Six hundred copies are printed each publication and the support of the paper comes from the space sold to advertisers who represent the places where E.N.C. trades.

The aim of the "Campus Camera" staff is to present to the students an all-round paper—to give the news straight, to tell interesting incidents of E.N.C.'s campus life, and, the highest aim of all, the motivation for all others—is to hold aloft E.N.C.'s highest tradition—her tradition of Holiness.

Green Book

It has not been our intention that the "Green Book" be merely the literary efforts of our Freshman class, nor have we been concerned in introducing ourselves to the student body. We feel that E.N.C. is growing up. She has reached a period of transition from a small school to a larger one. It has been the experience of scores of schools having a spiritual emphasis to approach such a period but fail miserably the crucial test.

We, 1947's transitional wave, must be firmly grounded upon the Rock of Ages. We must live the privileges that we have in Christ. We must grow spiritually even as E.N.C. is growing. Our purpose has been to show our class, the largest in the history of E.N.C., as a responsible organization, eager to do its part in the future of our school.

We have presented this book to you through the combined efforts of Arthur Hughes, editor; Lamar Zimmerman, assistant editor; Virginia Brown and Paul Youngholm, co-business managers; and an indispensable staff of enthusiastic workers.

This is not a society of hoot owl enthusiasts, though the members may be as wise as owls; it is rather an organization of 600 American Colleges and Universities, of which E.N.C. is a member, listing selected students in the annual publication, Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, an index guide for the use of personnel managers.

Distinction in character, scholarship, leadership, and possibilities of future usefulness to business and society, determine the election to Who's Who. Seven upperclassmen and graduate students are selected by the representative faculty members and students. Six future ministers and one future teacher received the symbolic key this year.

There was a society that lived in a shoe,
There were so many Alphas . . .
but that's where the rhyme stops! The Alphas have proved by their activities that they know what to do. This Rush Day fifty-seven new students decided to "Keep in Step" and signed their names at the purple and white boot, thus pledging their allegiance to the Alpha Society—making the Alphas second only to the Betas in the number of the most new "children."

Alpha Outing—a trip to the Blue Hills—playing and eating fried eggs in the great outdoors.

Big Friday night—March 7—the Alphas presented their program, "The Spirit of America."

Sigma Del

The return of such veterans as J. C. Dixon, Freddie Haynes, Charles Akers, and the new students coming in made the sports horizon much brighter. The Alphas held their own in football and the girls won the championship in basketball.

The society was headed by an adequate "parentage"—Paul Andrews, president; Esther Colby, first semester vice-president; Vivian Coffee, 2nd semester vice-president; Priscilla Harvey, secretary; Roy Carnahan, treasurer; and Conard Stairs, chaplain. They co-operated and kept the Alphas "in step" with all the activities of E.N.C., always holding aloft her high traditions. In every activity the Alpha Society has been Christian, always keeping in mind that "the body is the temple" and that the temple must be clean.

The grey and red taxi service which welcomed "newcomers" to the campus this year, and the Information Booth in the Ad Building Lobby were Beta ideas to help new students get situated.

A giant red and white cash register animated with real live Betas bore the slogan, "Cash in with the Betas."

The hope that many new students would "be sold on the Betas" was realized when the largest number joined their ranks on Rush Day.

The Beta outing to the Blue Hills was the source of fun and mishap—horseback riding and games were an appreciated change from class routine, but eating banana cream pie with their fingers because of forgotten silverware and plates seemed to some to be carrying "roughing it" too far.

Sigma Del

"The Tale of Hiawatha"

The Beta Friday night program this year was an E.N.C. version of the tale of Hiawatha, replete with Indian braves and maidens, tepee, et al.

Every sport found the Betas right in there fighting. The Vets put in that needed push that made every game exciting, made Beta basketball the fastest game on the court. Spectator spirit was high, aided and abetted by the well-organized and enthusiastic cheerleaders. As a whole, the society put its vote behind the sports program by making their gift to the school this year a contribution toward the paving of the tennis courts.

The officers of the society were leaders in all activities and in keeping high the spiritual standards of E.N.C. They were Ellis Horton, president; Ruth Bass, vice-president; Luke Brinker, treasurer; Betty Smith, secretary; Paul Yamada, chaplain; and Bill MacKay, athletic coach.

From the halls of the Ad Building to the shores of Quincy Bay former students could be heard urging new students to "Get in Tune with the Gammas." On Rush Day thirty-nine new students responded and signed up at the huge "G" clef of the Gamma Musical Staff.

On a brisk October afternoon a care-free group of Gammas boarded a special bus for a day of fun at Franklin Park, then went to Houghton Pond where each served himself to huge juicy weiners, scalding coffee and multi-colored cupcakes.

Once more the Gamma football team took over the championship. The competition from the Betas and Alphas was stiff and rugged, but the Gammas battled courageously on the basketball court as well as on the gridiron.

On Friday night, January 24, the student body was given a "Moonlight Excursion" down the "Rivers of America" by the Gamma Society. For their enjoyment some of America's most beautiful scenery, some of the interesting people who haunt the banks of American rivers, and famous folk-songs and legends were portrayed.

The officers were Leland Davis, president; Mary Lechner, vice-president; Marilyn Emery, secretary; Theda Jones, treasurer; Murray Hewgill, chaplain; and Professor Rothwell, advisor.

Honor Society

Humility, unselfishness, obedience, and gratefulness were some of the emphases of the Honor Society's program, "Cinderella," or "Beauty For Ashes", presented in the spring. Believing in knowledge as an essential for correct living, the society proposes to promote a high scholastic standard among the students, to encourage mental achievement and not forget the Christian perspective.

Those taking at least twelve hours of college work, who maintain a B+ average and receive no grade lower than B and B+ in all major subjects, are eligible for membership in the Honor Society. Those who attain membership shall be honorary members thereafter.

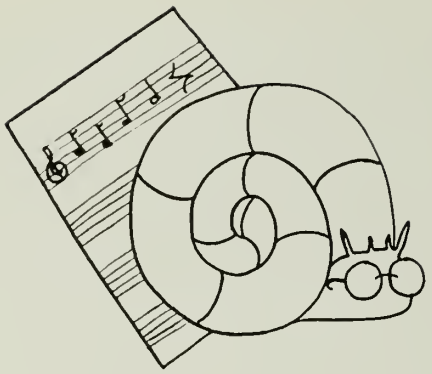
Literature Club

"Don Quixote!" "Scrooge!" "Samuel Coleridge!" "William Wordsworth!" "David Copperfield!" "Hamlet!" "Aeneas!" "Chaucer!"—such were the echoes from antiquity heard at the roll call of the Lit. Club, as its members assembled for meetings with their assumed names. Once a month the hand of time turned back the leaves on the Calendar of the Living Past, and Cinderella's godmother changed the club-room to a British Coffee House as Ben Jonson called the meeting to order.

At each session of the club the students donned their Faust mantles and proceeded to explore realms of Literature, particularly current literature and that for which there is no time in classwork. Also, there was some comparative study of past and current literature, indicating different types and trends. As proof that the Muses have not been neglecting their duty, some of the current campus literature was read by its originators.

As the candle burned down at the end of the last meeting, the students did not feel that they were closing another chapter, but that they were just beginning to turn the pages of the volumes of literary lore which had been opened to them.

The officers of this club were: Evelyn Brown, president; Marguerite Cate, vice-president; Elizabeth Hale, program director; Esther Colby, secretary-treasurer; Dean Munro, sponsor.



Music Club

"The listener is as necessary as the composer or performer." Realizing this, the club planned programs which made many, even the more or less untrained listeners, respond to the various emotional appeals of music. Programs included a spell-down of musical terms and discussions of seasonal music including "The Christmas Oratorio," by J. S. Bach, the origin of carols, patriotic music, and an Easter oratorio.

The club presented Charlotte and Artiss de Volt, concert violinist and harpist, at a Friday night program on November 8, 1946. As a project the club purchased two season tickets for the weekly symphony concerts performed by Boston Symphony Orchestra. These tickets were available for student use.

The officers were: Grace Umstead, president; Louise Webster, vice-president; Phoebe Peoples, secretary; Pauline Douglas, treasurer; and Professor Cove, advisor.

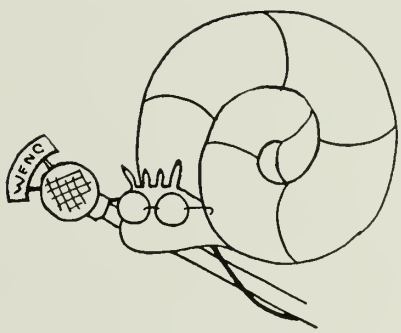
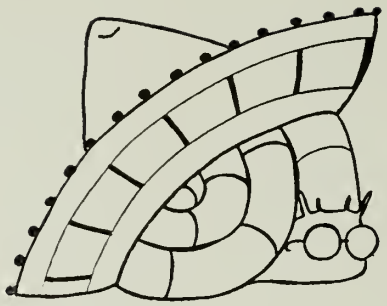
Realizing that speech is the medium which man uses to inspire and communicate one with another, the Speech Club endeavors to train students to use their voices to the best advantage in order to become forceful and effective Christian leaders. Its officers: Richard Hawk, president; Barbara Greene, vice-president; Audrey Ward, secretary-treasurer; and Miss Louise Dygoski, advisor; work to make each meeting profitable. The recording machine allows one to hear his own voice and thus he is able to focus his attention on purity and power in voice production and to improve and correct his speech. By listening to outside speakers, the student learns how speech work is carried on in other schools. Speech helps him to broaden his horizon and in time it will make him a better citizen.

Mr. J. Robbert Emmel, Speech Club advisor for the 2nd semester, rendered invaluable service to the club—bringing new life and impetus to its forward moving program.



Speech Club



Las Estrellas

Apparently "Las Estrellas" did an excellent job of shining in their first year as a club, for this year's membership has almost doubled.

It has been the aim of the stars, this year, to shine in the direction of Central America and the Spanish-speaking islands with an intensity of penetration, so as to enlighten themselves concerning the daily customs, culture, and habits of their neighbors south of the border. Various members of the club gained a fund of information to share with the club by corresponding with missionaries and students of these countries.

A delightful attraction, providing interest, humor, and vitality, was afforded in the person of Vice-President Senorita Carmen Marie Morales, a native Puerto Rican.

Violet Balwit, president; Mary Weaver, secretary; Dale Galbraith, treasurer; and Mrs. Rothwell, the faculty advisor, were the enthusiastic leaders.

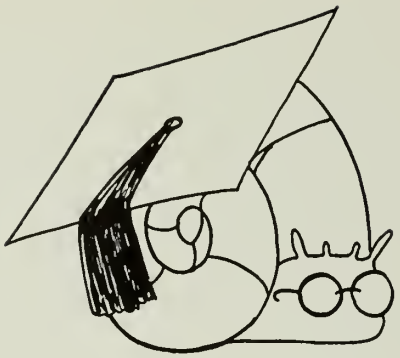
Historical Society

"Lewis heads miners in coal strike, seriously crippling Nation." . . . "Republicans take Nation by landslide." . . . "Labor Unions, Necessary?" . . . "Molotoff Renigs." . . . "Peace Conference Complications." Such items of vital current interest occupied the time of the Historical Club meetings and the minds of its enthusiastic members.

The society is a member of the Carnegie Foundation for Peace, whose purpose has been to become an active force in its country's fight for peace. As a group we have a common concern in the current world events of today. Our activities during the year were organized in such a manner as to aid us in understanding the present actions, practices, and creeds of our country.

The officers were: Paul Clark, president; Bill Abersold, vice-president; and Barbara Brooks, secretary-treasurer.



Bowne Philosophical Society

The "Lovers of Wisdom" with Professor Rothwell formed the Borden Parker Bowne Philosophical Society, organized and perpetuated to direct the students in their quest for truth, promoted by incurable human curiosity. When such guests as Socrates, Plato, and Aristotle were present and expressed their doctrine and defended their beliefs the monthly meetings proved exciting and interesting. . . . This year we have devoted our time to a project—"The Drama of Philosophy," presenting famous philosophers dramatized by the club members who represented these noble characters in vividly illuminating skits.

All activities of the society are directed to help encourage the students to more persistent and correct thinking about life's true values.

The officers were: Charles Muxworthy, president; Laura J. Boyd, vice-president; Bernadine Mobberly, secretary; and Floyd Fleming, treasurer.

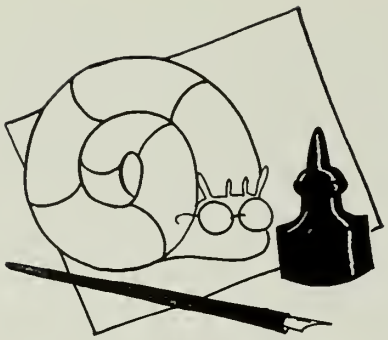
Psychology Club

With extreme interest and delight we watched the rat trying to escape the maze, and reflected how often we had reacted as foolishly in life's situations. Even with remarkable control, we cowered under the scrupulous honesty of the lie-detector.

The Psychology Club was organized this year, under the advisorship of Professor R. W. Parsons, with the purpose of executing psychological experiments and discussing psychological phenomena.

The projects included extra-sensory perception, taste experiments, and lectures by outside speakers. Visits to the mental institutions and schools for subnormal children proved interesting as well as educational.

The officers were: Erlaine Weaver, president; Keith Smith, vice-president; Theda Jones, secretary-treasurer.



Biology Club

For its major activity this year the Biology Club chose to continue their work of previous years, that of making useful models and charts for the laboratory and the classroom. Besides receiving academic credit for the completion of individual projects, members found the work both enjoyable and profitable, in increasing their own store of knowledge, developing biological crafts and skills and in discovering unsuspected artistic ability. Social activities included several outings among which was a skating party.

Officers this year were: Jean Dorothy, president; Margaret Lemon, secretary-treasurer; Paul Basham, vice-president; Vivian Musnug and Virginia Greene, representatives-at-large. Professor Babcock was advisor to the group.

Chemical Association

The Chemical Association was organized this year at the request of several students whose interest in pure chemistry gave them the impetus to branch out in their work.

At a meeting called by those interested officers were elected consisting of J. C. Dixon, president; Frances Allen, vice-president; Myrtle Bastedo, secretary-treasurer; and a consitution was adopted which limited the membership to those who have had or are taking chemistry on a college level.

Due to the very recent organization of the club, opportunity did not present itself for large activities, but visits to the laboratories of Northeastern University, M.I.T., and chemical industries were scheduled. Discussion topics such as "National Scholarships Available for Advanced Work" and "Organization of the Chemical Industry "made the meetings interesting and profitable.

Societas Prae-Medica

"Sponge . . . pulse . . . breathing . . . scalpel . . ." "Patient normal, doctor . . ."

Societas Prae-Medica, a newly organized society, is a band of students inspired with an earnest desire to heal the sick, raise the lame, and cleanse the leper. The club enables the members to express and gratify their interests in the subject and to become acquainted with the nature and the perplexing problems of the medical profession.

At a banquet, during the year, Dr. Roger Mann, honorary president of the society, delivered a lecture on the present educational difficulties confronting medical students. The student's outlook should be serious; the attitude kind and sympathetic. Dr. Hynd presented a talk concerning his experiences during his twenty-seven years as a medical missionary in Africa.

The officers of the club were: Luther Pennington, president; Floyd Jones, vice-president; and Lamar Zimmerman, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Shrader was advisor.

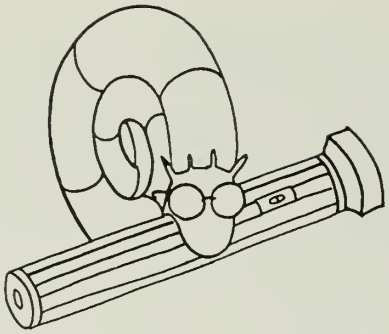
Future Teachers' Association

She folded her hands firmly on the desk, glared at the rebellious pupils and in a stern, steady voice brought peace out of chaotic confusion. Her teacher technique—perfected through patient practice.

For interesting projects Professor Parsons presented a helpful lecture on his experience in public high schools; Carmen Morales gave an inspiring talk on her teaching in Puerto Rico, her native land. We produced a film depicting the method in which E.N.C. prepares students for the teaching profession. This was our main task of the year.

The officers were: Jean Wood, president; Helen Marta, vice-president; Eunice MacPherson, secretary; Virginia Greene, treasurer; Theda Jones, librarian; Erlaine Weaver, chaplain; and Professor Groves, advisor.



House Council

When the dormitory halls were cluttered with furniture, brushes, brooms, and buckets, we knew in a moment it must be Open House. "Ah, the efficiency of the House Council," was whispered as the crowds milled from one tidy dormitory to another—Open House—a grand success.

With the sonorous tones of the monitor's commands ringing in their ears, E.N.C.ers trot wearily off to their rooms for their winter's nap. Only by the discipline of the council is peace maintained and our rest secured.

If the statues in the library appear to have an enhancing luster and resemble more the object of the sculpture it's because the council undertook the cleaning of the same.

The sponsoring of the daily evening prayer-meetings, the unique girls' party and the monthly monitorial meetings show the versatility of the organization whose president was Jean Wood.

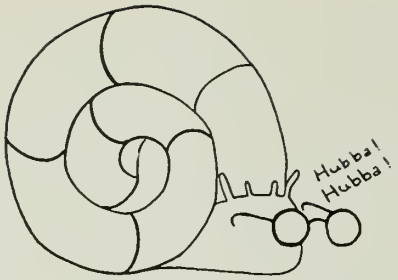
The Band

The blare of the brasses, the trilling of the reeds, the rumble of the drums, and another Thursday night band practice has begun. After a lapse of ten years, the band has renewed its activities under the precise baton of Professor Rankin, an accomplished musician on six different instruments. The progress of the association has been incredibly rapid.

Tapping their feet to the militaristic rhythm of "The Gloria March," experiencing the plaintive pathos of Bach's "Overture in B minor," or dreaming under the spell of melancholy sweetness of Shubert's "Serenade," the twenty-three members escape the boredom of books.

The administration has assisted the organization by providing necessary instruments and music. We were limited this year, in our performances, to arousing enthusiasm at the basketball games, and to presenting a concert in the spring.



The Miriams

". . . Miriam, the prophetess, took a timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her. . . . And Miriam answered them, Sing ye to the Lord, for He hath triumphed gloriously."

The Miriams, all-girl choir, chose their name from this Old Testament passage in honor of Miriam and her followers who praised God in song.

The major task of the Miriams for the first semester was to assist the A Cappella choir in the rendition of Handel's "Messiah."

In the spring the girls presented a program of varied selections. A repertoire ranging from the beautiful Narcissus to the rollicking Nursery Rhymes indicates the talent of the girls and the excellent leadership of Professor Williamson.

The choir officers are: Helen Marta, president; Elva Pettit, vice-president; Iris Cove, secretary-treasurer; and Lorna Allen, librarian.

RELIGION

President

The Evangelistic Association is a vital part of student life at E.N.C. It has been maintained because of the necessity for the students to have an exercised Christian faith, to express their burden for souls in active work. This year's president, Donald Reed, divided the organization of 225 members into ten groups, each with a group leader, and during the year these groups held religious services in Merrimac Mission, Calvary Mission, Emmanuel Gospel Center, Union Rescue Mission, Grace and Hope Mission, Good Samaritan Mission, Industrial Home, Salvation Army, Bible Classes, hospitals, prisons, on street corners, and other places in the vicinity of Boston.

Such activities afford excellent training for students who are preparing for religious work, stress the significance of living a spirit-filled life, and impress the students with the desperate need of sin-wrecked souls for the Gospel. All the members have been given opportunities to use whatever talents they possessed: to sing, preach, pray, play an instrument, or testify.

The officers, including Jerry Douds, vice-president; Keith Smith, treasurer; Eunice MacPherson, secretary; and Dr. Owen, faculty adviser; caught a vision of what could be done if more adequate transportation were available to enable more groups to go out and hold services. They inaugurated a fund for the future purchase of a station wagon to be used solely for Evangelistic Association activities.

The Association is also influential in helping to maintain the proper spiritual emphasis on the campus.

FIVE MUSICAL GROUPS

Most E.N.C. quartets and trios have had their beginnings in a dormitory room or in one of the practice rooms in the Canterbury. As soon as their origin is discovered, they are asked to sing in the college dining hall and on Friday night programs. Then, imbued with the spirit of service, they have found opportunities to sing in missions, at revival services and at youth rallies. And, wherever they have gone, they have taken their testimony for Christ and have endeavored to do service for Him.

Hospital Choir

Every Sunday afternoon the Hospital Group journeyed to the Quincy City Hospital and from 3:30 to 4:30 brought comfort and cheer to the patients by singing hymns in the corridors. Keith Smith and Herbert Sinden led the choir and Bonnie Douglas played the portable organ. Often patients requested certain hymns sung. "The Old Rugged Cross" and "In the Garden" were favorites.

In the wards, the children responded with delight to the choruses and motion songs sung for them.

Doctors and nurses have commended the hospital choir and affirmed that after the period of song the patients' morale was much higher. Several patients have written letters of appreciation to the group, stating: "The singing has been a real help and inspiration to me." Or, "It is indeed wonderful to know that in the city of Quincy we have such a fine college as yours."

The members of the choir themselves received spiritual blessing as they endeavored to help others; and they were touched by glimpses of hospital life—a little lad confined to an iron lung; a nurse sweeping through the corridor with a new-born baby snuggled in fluffy blankets.

During the winter the Crusaders held services in nearby churches and sang for high school assemblies, business gatherings, and youth rallies.

A Cappella Choir

The A Cappella Choir made its debut for the school year 1946–47 on December 13, 1946, with its traditional presentation of Handel's oratorio, The Messiah, directed by Professor Williamson. The soloists were: Elizabeth McFarland, Grace Umstead, sopranos; Professor Williamson, contralto; Rev. Kenneth Akins, tenor; Rev. Homer Smith, bass. In addition to lending its support to the choir, an instrumental ensemble enhanced the beauty of the performance by its rendition of the "Pastoral Symphony."

Highlight of the second semester was the A Cappella tour of the entire Eastern zone. The work of the year climaxed in a concert of sacred music presented in a Friday night program in late spring.

The officers this year were: Charles Muxworthy, president; Paul Moore, business manager; Jean Wood, secretary-treasurer; and Walter MacPherson, librarian.

The purpose of the choir is that of J. S. Bach's, "Music for the glory of God."

Y. W. F. M. S.

The first Sunday afternoon of each month the Y.W.F.M.S., led by Vivian Musnug, president, conducted the after-dinner prayer meeting. Programs, arranged by Verna Hardy, superintendent of study, included a series of studies from "Let Us Look At India;" personal experiences on the foreign field told by our Puerto Rican student, Carmen Morales, and on the home mission field in Kentucky by Miriam Park; and a specially arranged program by the Pre-Medical Association of E.N.C. on medical missions.

This year's sale of Scripture text calendars produced the best results ever.

The other officers were Laura Jane Boyd, vice-president; Margaret Lemon, secretary; Mary Catherine Boggs, treasurer; Mary Belle Harris, superintendent of publicity; and Mrs. Ruth Patton, counselor.

College Missionary Society

Disseminating missionary knowledge and stimulating interest in the world-wide missionary program of the Church were the objectives of the College Missionary Society for 1946–1947. Under the leadership of Lee Allison, president, the Society sponsored chapel services featuring well-known veteran missionaries, a weekly prayer service for the student body, and Saturday evening meetings when E.N.C.'s prospective missionaries prayed and discussed pertinent problems about their future work.

Other officers were Verna Hardy, secretary-treasurer, and Marilyn Emery and Paul Basham, representatives-at-large.

A Bible quiz . . . singing new choruses . . . a Thanksgiving feast . . . veterans and church attendance in England, Japan, Central America . . . special speakers . . . solos, trios, duets, quartets . . . every N.Y.P.S. service this year was characterized by a splendid spirit of co-operation and fellowship. The Council, consisting of Murray Hewgill, president; Naomi Newton, vice-president; Mary Belle Harris, secretary-treasurer; Arthur Brown, chorister; Barbara Greene, pianist; Esther Colby, Doris Lingford, Donald Reed, and Ray Carpenter, members-at-large; planned programs that were interesting, devotional, practical. Many students participated in the meetings, and this means of spiritual expression was a blessing to them.

Apart from the regular Sunday meetings the Society was co-sponsor with the Evangelistic Association of a "Singspiration" as a Friday night program; on December 15 after the Sunday evening service Christmas carols were sung by a large group of students, in the surrounding community, and especially before the homes of faculty members; the Society sent Christmas boxes to shut-ins, and they held an Easter sunrise service.

Dr. Gould was counselor for the N.Y.P.S.

CHAPEL SPEAKERS

Chapel services have a definite part in college life. This year inspirational messages from faculty members and visitors, and various programs, emphasized many phases of life and offered a challenge to every student.

There was the message by Dr. Young on Psalm 119: 165; Dr. Gould's emphasis on the "importance of determining and fulfilling wants that really matter;" Dean Munro's comments on the characters in "Pilgrim's Progress" which showed how attitudes and actions determine one's "name"; Professor Blaney's encouragement towards spiritual maturity based on the two admonitions to "tarry until;" Professor Babcock's prayer, "Enliven my vision by Thy presence that where I see Thy beckoning I may know that Thou art gone on before me even as I must go;" Professor Spangenberg's story of Shiro Kano's life.

Unforgettable is the wholesome laughter provoked by Professor Goodnow's various emphases on the pertinent question, "What do you think?" and Professor Groves' development of "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."

Figuring largely in the chapel services were the contributions made by visitors. Rev. C. B. Cox, the evangelist for the Fall Revival, helped us to remember "This is the will of God even your sanctification;" Rev. L. J. Fritzlan brought greetings from the Nazarene young people of India and told a little about his work there; Mrs. Julia Lake Kellersberger, wife of the General Secretary of the American Mission to Lepers, gave some of her experiences in visiting leper hospitals in Central and South America and Africa.

Programs by different groups had their part, too: the Thanksgiving program by the Junior Class; the reading of letters from former ministerial students by members of the Ministerial Association; the Christmas program given by the A Cappella Choir, the Miriams, and the Triumphateers; the presentation of a Westinghouse radio-phonograph by the Senior Class to the College.

Several chapel services were dedicated to testimonies which verified the fact that "each life was a miracle in itself."

REVIVALISTS

C. B. COX

J. B. CHAPMAN

The religious life of our College has been marked this year by a consistent emphasis upon evangelism, and with gracious results. The opening convention in September, when Reverend Everett S. Phillips, of Baltimore, Maryland, was our human leader, set a high standard for the year. God was graciously present and many were reached for Christ.

Later in the fall we enioyed a blessed spiritual quickening under the sane, impassioned ministry of Reverend Charles B. Cox, of Indianapolis, Indiana. The results in this meeting were achieved by the mighty moving of the Holy Spirit. Truth mingled with grace marked the ministry of Brother Cox.

In March our beloved General Superintendent, Dr. James B. Chapman, came to us for eight memorable days. The five weekday mornings of this period were devoted to the annual Gould Memorial Lectures, the third series on this foundation. Evening services and Sundays were devoted to evangelism and particularly to emphasis upon the doctrine, experience, and life of Christian Perfection. This series formed a fitting climax to the special evangelism of the year 1946–1947.

Led by Harold "Red" Parry, a fighting Blue and Gold Gamma football team copped the football championship for the sixth straight year. Only one defeat marred a perfect record. Parry, the team's playing coach, was the spark plug of the Gamma outfit. He was ably aided offensively by Fulmer and Clark, two all-round backs. Nicholson and Cook played the end positions superbly, and were towers of strength on the defense. Don Reed again came through at the center slot. His defensive play was a big cause in the Gamma's winning ways. Once again, hats off to a fine Gamma championship team.

Don Retter Boots One

The 1946 edition of the Alpha football team proved to be one of inexperience. Nevertheless, the Alphas didn't fail in giving their rivals a fight.

Coach Charlie Akers had plenty of material on hand. Larry Watkins developed into their best all-round player. Haynes and Burton rounded out the Purple and White backfield.

The line was led by Herb Sinden who played a rugged game at end. Akers played center and backed up the line, while Lockhart covered the other end position. The Alphas were deep in reserve strength with Caldwell, Northrop, Cafferella, Matthews and Hughes. The '47 season should see the Alphas an improved team due to a season of experience.

For the second consecutive year, the Beta football aggregation claimed the runner-up position. The Red and Gray outfit did humble the winners once due to the spark aided by former G.I.'s.

The line found Keyes a newcomer at the center spot where he excelled. Domingues and Eby played the end positions superbly on the offense. McNeely took over one end position on the defense and played an aggressive game.

The backfield included Retter, Nease and MacKay as regulars with Cerratto and Carlson in reserve. These men were always in there fighting and rounded out the Beta machine.

Alpha

The Alphas were just another basketball team until they added Duane Grimm to their roster. From that point on the Alphas were definitely in the running. Captain Larry Watkins' ball-handling kept his team an offensive threat in every game. Paul Lockhart covered the center slot to perfection. J. C. Dixon and Grimm were a fine set of forwards. Grimm's accurate shooting sparked the Alpha offensive drive. Haynes, Watkins' partner at the other guard position, shone defensively. Abersold was an able replacement along with Grant, Caldwell, Muxworthy and Burton. This year's outfit employed a tight zone defense that proved to be their best weapon.

Gamma

Sparked by "Red" Parry and Kenny Fulmer, two hold-overs from last year's championship club, the Gammas continued to be on top of the Society League.

Cal Maybury's return from the service greatly aided the cause as he used his heighth to great advantage. These three key men received help from Clark, a fine guard; and Nicholson, an able forward, made the champs a formidable outfit. Goodnow, Hall, Reed and Mellert filled in superbly when called on.

Speed, aggressiveness and uncanny shots were typically characteristic of the '46–'47 edition. The ability to come from behind when the pressure was on proved that Coach Parry's men were of championship calibre.

The Betas, improved by newcomers and veterans, provided the spectators with many a thrilling moment. There was a close last minute 18–16 win, a decision dropped 39–38, and many more exciting wins and defeats on the schedule.

Two fast dependable forwards in Retter and Dominguez had the opposition on their toes. Big Steve Nease, center, was an able backboard retriever. In Walton and MacKay the Betas had a pair of fine defensive guards.

In reserve the Betas had G. McCabe, K. Shubert, D. Duvall, G. Hardy, and P. Eby.

The Alpha lassies came out as winners of the girls' volley ball league. Under the able leadership of Eileen Albright, the team was undefeated in league competition. The Alphas were aided by the all-around play of such stalwarts as Aslin, Adams, Anderson Taylor, and Haywood. In reserve they had Maybury, White and Harvey. For the first season the Alphas had the material to win. Each game found them stronger than the time before as they proved to be tops.

The Betas finished in second position this year. They gave the champs the closest of competition in league play. Led by Peggy Christenson the Red and Gray team played spirited ball in all games. Janice Giles furnished the biggest punch in her aggressive play. Allen, Plumb, Gracey, and Watts contributed their share to the Beta cause. Horton and Stevens came through when needed and were able reserves. Next season should find the team stronger.

Gamma

The Gamma girls couldn't get started due to tough breaks and inexperience. While outclassed, the Blue and Gold spirit showed the old "do or die" fight in every game. The two Emery sisters, Eleanor and Marilyn were the mainstays of the team. Assisting them were Hodges, Weaver, Howard and Wood. Brown, Church, Dickinson and Hoshmatian played a good game when in action. With a season of experience completed the Gammas next year will be hard to beat.

Alpha

The girls' basketball league was all sewed up by the Alpha girls from the first game on. With Esther Anderson and Eileen Albright their chief offensive threats the Alphas were never headed. Naomi Newton kept pace with the Alpha offensive attack with her timely shots. Doris Aslin, Christine Nease and Ada Haywood were stellar guards. Their defensive play held the opponents scoring to a minimum. Adams, Tingley, Taylor, Booher and Hazelcamp were valuable substitutes.

Beta

Experience is a great teacher, and next year's team will have this added advantage to aid them. This year the Beta girls suffered many a defeat, but gained valuable experience. Only veteran in the line-up was Peggy Christensen, captain and center forward. Betty Gracey and Patti Herrschaft played the forward positions. In Janice Giles the Betas had the best all-round guard in the school. Mary Alice Stotler and Ruth Bass held down the other guard positions. Watts and Gardner played in the reserve role.

"Off the Backboard"

Gamma

The Blue and Gold girls' team had an up and down season. The Emery sisters paved the way on the offensive side. Either Marilyn or Eleanor were capable of having one big night. Elaine Long found "her eye" around mid-season making the Gammas a threat constantly. Alma Swank was a vital cog in the machinery as she alternated between the forward and guard positions. In Erlaine Weaver and Nelda Vidt the Gamma girls had two scrappy, defensive guards. In reserve were J. Dorothy, M. Dickinson, M. Harris, N. Roth and J. Smith.

"N" Club

The "N" Club of '46–'47 took up the cry of "pave the tennis courts!" This goal became a reality during the school year after a plan for raising sufficient money for the project proved successful.

The Club functions as an advisary body to the athletic committee. Many projects are undertaken for the improvement of athletics at E.N.C.

Every year at the annual athletic banquet new members are presented with the letter "N." Sportsmanship, athletic ability, teamwork, and character are basic requirements for admittance into the Club. New members are chosen by the members of the Club at the regular annual election.

The Club functions under William MacKay, president; Esther Anderson, vice-president; Janet Smith, secretary; Alma Swank, treasurer; and Professor J. R. Naylor, adviser.

Cheerleaders

The spirit of enthusiasm during athletic contests found its impetus in the well organized Society cheerleaders. Their loyal rooting encouraged many a losing squad, and led in the rejoicing over a well-earned victory. They proved their abilities at the games where each outfit was well-drilled, high spirited, and smartly clad. Each society has cause to be proud of their respective cheerleaders.

The Sports Cast

Every type of sporting activity finds its way into the hearts of E.N.C. sports enthusiasts. Skating has a large following, especially when Joe Winter sets in and gives the nearby ponds a thick coating of ice. Skiing and tobogganing occupy many minds until finally couples make their way to the mountains for a day of fun and frolic.

The minor sports at E.N.C. have their biggest following in the Spring season. During this period many different activities can be spotted on any part of the campus. For instance, the fellows and girls, in separate ping-pong tournaments, struggle for the coveted championship award. Tennis comes to the forefront and the enthusiasm is capped by the annual tourneys. Golf takes its place in the sporting interest of some fellows, and if you look close enough on any sunny afternoon you can see many of them with golf bags happily trudging their way to the golf course.

Baseball, really a main sport, is actively participated in by the three societies. A league is formed and the clubs battle it out for top honors. Volley ball is constantly indulged in by ardent devotees to the game.

Softball takes over after the evening meal with bang-up pick-up games being played Field hockey is being tried by the girls and in a few years should be a leading girls' sport here. Plenty of room for horseshoe pitching is found at the pits next to the gym, where skill and a good eye are needed.

All in all there is plenty of activity available for all those needing the exercise —for that moment away from the books and for the complete relaxation that gives the individual new strength to carry on.

FEATURES

Dormitory Life

How did we ever get along without the new wing? Like electricity, it took the actuality to make us realize the necessity of our new dorm.

There are the Nautilus and Camera rooms where editors and staff members madly turn out copy; and the Ping-Pong room where students (?) relax from their worries of book reports and back work, and play or watch the experts.

Oh, the unforgettable moments in the dining hall—the requests read after dinner, the lectures about dining room etiquette, the ditties that were sung to new couples (and re-united ones).

Crowded conditions prevailed in the ironing room where girls signed up two days ahead for the use of the Bendix and one frequently heard questions such as "How many are waiting for that iron?"

Then the beautiful rooms! Sunshine pouring in the large windows reflecting on the pink walls! This is where we lived—studied, slept, got ready for dates—and cleaned. This was the center for the sessions where the girls came in and news was discussed, problems told, and advice given—yes, this is where we got acquainted.

And the parlor. The fireplace, the soft draperies, the beautiful furniture, and the new Westinghouse radio-phonograph. This was the place to congregate before dinner or after programs and fellowship "one with another."

The importance of the lobby! The office girl who takes calls, gives information, and that little board where the buttons are pressed to call down the girls - those little buzzes that bring all kinds of news. The luxuries and pleasures that the new wing has given us have made it indispensable.

the Scenes

Faculty

These are the people who, in a large sense, willl make E.N.C. such a dear memory as we go.

Their sympathetic interest in our every problem has afforded us the benefits of sound advice and whole-hearted encouragement. Their willing and enthusiastic participation in our extra-curricular activities has provided the needed balance to make our fun and work a success. Their high scholastic standards have meant lost sleep and wracked brains on our part, but it is we who have profited also.

Their unanimous whole-hearted testimony to the faithfulness of God has been an inspiration to our youthful and sometimes discouraged hearts. Their lives are a very present proof that holiness is a reality.

Alumni

Christ said: "If you love me, feed my sheep." E.N.C. is composed of teachers and students who love Christ and who are feeding His sheep. The preparation our E.N.C. Alumni received here at college has enabled them to feed the sheep they find in their fields of life. The preacher from our college shepherds his flock; the teacher feeds the minds of the lambs and consequently the soul; the mother feeds the lambs God has given her in a thousand various ways. We feel that the world is better for having our E.N.C. alumni to help carry the burden, just as we feel that our alumni have benefited from the kind of instruction we receive here today. We are grateful to E.N.C. for her opportunities afforded, and proud of our alumni everywhere, who have abundantly received and graciously given.

Senior Activities

A mirage? . . . Frantic folks lugging old shoes, charging with spears, composing novel tunes? . . . merely the seniors returning from their scavenger hunt. An apparition? . . . These people crawling on the floor, . . . weird noises, strange garb, animal-like features? . . . merely the seniors playing "Little Boy Blue" at their party. A vision? . . . merely Herrschaft devouring six hamburgers, ten cupcakes, and four cups of cocoa. A dream? . . . That handsome Westinghouse Radio Phonograph? . . . the senior gift . . . it plays, it talks, it sings. We love it!

"Where are all the seniors?" "Where, oh where can they be?" Were the cries issuing from the open mouths of the bewildered students. They have gone to the mountains to cool, but the juniors made it hot for them. If Moore hadn't washed the night before, no one would have suspected. The sneak unsuccessful, but the trip, heavenly. On the thrilling ski jump we lost our breath. In the beautiful dining-hall we broke all records of our calory consumption. A trip!

The angel boy, in his soiled overalls, and muddy dog, clammered about Miss Miller, fussy old maid—their new mistress. . . . Janet Smith's recital. Clearly her words echoed through the chapel and through the hearts of the listeners. We were proud of her. Skippy Davis stirred our emotions and kindled our imaginations as the classic works of the past flooded our souls. "I Remember Mama," was a humorous reading presented by Eleanor Emery, another talented senior.

Where oh where are the seniors? Under the haystack fast asleep. The week of comprehensives was passed —eyes hung out, teeth shrivelled, brains decayed. In our dignified black gowns we paraded majestically down the aisle. The gymnorium was beautiful in its new spring ensemble, the junior girls were never sweeter, the boys, never neater the faculty, never keener, and we—never more thrilled. The trip, the banquet—all is well with the world!

But what would our class have been without the constant help of Prof. Blaney, our advisor? Class Day— Joe soared in his masterful address. We were proud seniors. Commencement—Mother, Dad, the family—we tingled with emotion. The last march, the last song, the last sermon, the last diploma, the last applause, the last benediction—and our college days have ended—Long live the memories!

SENIORS

With stately carriage we journeyed slowly up the long aisle. Strains of "Tannhauser" melted into our consciousness. Then our thoughts floated back—back. The largest freshman class; battered, bruised from the awkward feats of initiation. War—farewells to our fellows. Scaling the rugged heights of the Blue Hills, exercising our sophomore muscles. Choked with bewilderment and humility when we sought the sneaking seniors; filled with dignity and pride when we entertained them at "Warwick Hall." Peace—vets returned. Then seniors. Snatching strands of hair from bright red-heads; plucking frozen beets from neighbor's victory garden—our scavenger hunt. Trip to the crystal dreamland in the mountains—unforgettable. Groans, moans—comprehensives; but we lived, saw dawn, felt sunset's glow on our Junior-Senior Day.

Strains of "Tannhauser" again—graduating. Would this be the end? Would our friendships cease forever? Thoughts of class prayer-meetings—our flagging faith strengthened, our distress turned to optimism, our darkness transformed to light, our determination renewed, our burdens lifted—always with a spirit of sympathetic simplicity. Left—right. We have endured the turbulence of war, we have suffered the loss of members; but united by an understanding of one another, by the sharing of mutual woes, and by a common knowledge of saving faith through the blood of Christ, the Senior Class emerges triumphantly, to exalt the Name of Him who bringeth to all men Salvation.

JUNIORS

It was the year of 1944. With hopes for a near victory we started with would-be sophistication on our college career. Our assumed dignity was soon quelled by the Sophomore Gestapo who atoned for all the enforced ignominies by a welcoming banquet. Our expectations for victory were dashed by the prolonged Battle of the Bulge but we found strength from our weekly prayer meetings which were times of inspiration. Our special Easter chapel service brought a new vision of the Crucified One. . . . As sophomores we took the "Greenies" through a horror chamber and ended up with more aching muscles than they. Class spirit heightened and we became more purposeful. We had a mission to fulfill. . . . Our junior year was crowded from beginning to end with activities and excitement. Doing twenty-four-hour service as super-sleuths, we were on the alert for the Senior Sneak, so we were not surprised when they made their annual get-away. On their return we had a jovial time "Together." And then came Junior-Senior Day. We "moved up" for the last time, entertained the seniors at a never-to-be-forgotten banquet.

One more year—incredible; may it bring the realization of lives prepared for His service.

SOPHOMORES

Joyfully - parting with battered history books, we mournfully accepted overwhelmingly huge literature books . . . and officially became Sophomores. Remembering how we cowered under the tyrannical reign of last year's Sophomores, we endeavored to frighten the toughest freshman class, but, alas—we merely succeeded in learning their names. Before dawn, sophomores could be heard driving unrecognizable freshmen through the "House of Horrors" and out onto the athletic field for their traditional calisthenics. Initiation night found "Judge" Floyd Flemming, weak and weary, pronouncing sentence on four bewildered, protesting freshmen. Our task ended . . . relief!

The worries of books forgotten, we greedily imbibed the refreshing beauty of New England's countryside during our outing.

Memories, alone, of inspirational prayermeetings in Room 25 will provide strength for service.

We have reached the half-way mark of our college days. With wistful anticipation we seek to perform, with all diligence, the will of God.

2nd Semester: Vice-President Lamar Zimmerman

Class of 1950, an active, moving force with something of a G.I. flavor, moved into the E.N.C. realm with a determination to do things, and do things it did.

Talent was not lacking in this new crowd. The freshness of youth and the earnestness of older members combined to pack an explosive force that was quickly detonated. The explosion was heard quite loudly on the football field where three freshmen gained positions on the all-star team. Again, basketball was taken in stride, as they made no small noise on the court. In an even greater measure they were heard in singing specials, playing trumpets, and participating in almost every campus activity. In a manner becoming veteran seniors they "pulled" their pranks, and with very little coaching they found their way to Merrymount.

Under stalwart guidance the largest class in the history of the college moved forward for Christ. Many of its members were frequently heard witnessing for their Redeemer. They were active in daily prayer-meetings, and were faithful in attendance. They concluded their first year with the determination to live three more similar to it, in order that they might be remembered for their spiritual assets, if for no other reason.

Church Adver tising . . .

The greatest asset of Eastern Nazarene College is its endowment by the various churches on the Eastern Educational Zone. And even as the college is dependent largely upon the Church for its maintenance, so the entire zone determines its pulse by the calibre of the product we are turning out from year to year, and also to the degree that our graduates become successful in their respective professions. And likewise, through the college annual, our educational zone evaluates to some degree, the spirit of faith and advancement, and the general tone which prevails on our campus.

The success of this annual is due largely to the co-operation and practical response of the pastors and friends of many churches, who understand the value and importance of our church school. The next few pages represent a measure of work and thoughtfulness which are a necessity to the realization of this college annual; and also indicate the strength of the bond of unity which exists between the constituency and the college.

The 1947 Nautilus Staff takes this opportunity to express our thanks to our many church friends. We trust that your investment in this edition will bring effective results in your church development.

TUNE IN

Start your day listening to the Crusaders' Quartet on the "Wings of the Morning" program.
Station: W H D H 850 on your radio dial. Time: 6:45 to 7:00 A.M. Daily except Sunday.

The Crusaders take this opportunity to express their appreciation to the many pastors who have opened their churches to us this school year. Ours has been the joy of singing the "Good News of Full Salvation" and the joy that comes from service for Him. Thank you so much.

Your Publishing House

is an institution of the church. It is controlled by the church. It is operated for the sole purpose of serving the church as a denominational press and supply house and to assist the church in its program of giving the full gospel to the whole world. Its particular part of that program is of course the ministry of the printed page.

To give you an idea of the part the Nazarene Publishing House is privileged to have in the work of the church we give you the following facts:

The Nazarene Publishing House

—has assets totaling more than one million dollars—every dollar dedicated to the task of spreading the gospel over the entire world.

—is literally "girdling the globe with salvation." If the periodicals published since 1912 were placed end to end they would completely encircle the earth and cover more than 20,000 miles on the second circuit. More than 23,500,000 periodicals are now being published annually.

—is filling a vital place in the field of religious book publishing. During the calendar year closing December 31, 1946 more than 156,400 books and booklets have been printed.

—is a substantial contributor to the general interests of the church. Since 1940, more than $174,000 has been given to various departments of general church activity.

—is equipped and ready to fill orders for anything in the religious field needed for personal, Sunday school or church use. Your patronage is urged for any and all items of a religious nature needed by yourself, your church or your Sunday school.

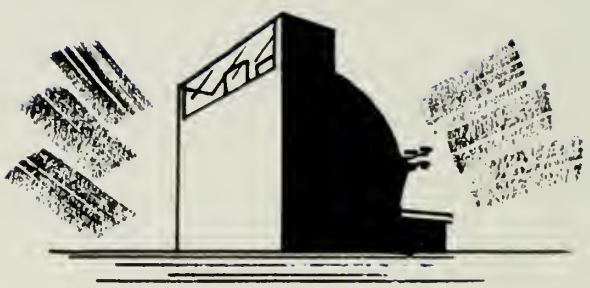
Commercial Ac



vertising . . .

Through the accomplishment of this, the 1947 college annual, we have discovered, in our commercial friends, a prevailing sense of loyalty which cannot be excelled. We have listed in this section of the book a group of advertisers who represent the best in quality and service.

In the long run it is the willing co-operation of these business men that contributes much to the existence of E.N.C.; not only by their yearly support of the publication of the Nautilus but by their untiring service to the college throughout the school year —many thanks to these business firms and their leaders. Let us show our appreciation by PATRONIZING our Commercial Advertisers thus boosting their desired and necessary CASH REGISTER SALES.

WORD CARDS

For Vocabulary Building

(Russian in preparation)

Each set contains over 1200 individual printed cards comprising a Basic Vocabulary. On the back of each card is the English equivalent.

Lack of an adequate vocabulary is not only a handicap to students but a deterrent to continued use of a language.

WORD CARDS help to take the drudgery out of vocabulary memorization. They are an effective supplement to ANY system or method of instruction.

THE CHURCH BEAUTIFUL

A Practical Study in Church Architecture

By John R. Scotford

$3.50

"Nowhere else in the field of church architecture and worship has so much practical wisdom been compressed into so brief a space. . . . It faces problems which every church must face in building or re-building, and presents solutions which seem, to the reviewer, to be architecturally right, psychologically sound and of the highest importance in the conduct of public worship. It excels in its marvelous illustrations. The pictures are not only of art in themselves, but each one teaches a lesson on some salient point of architectural wisdom."

Appreciation

It is impossible for us to close the cover on this volume without saying a word of grateful appreciation to those who have guided us to this final destination.

This book represents the best in yearbook production; that which comes through years of study and evaluation. It is the sum total of keen insight, clear vision, and controlled enthusiasm —the acme of plain perfection.

To Mr. Paul Blanchard of Warren Press, Mr. Verrill Carter of Roberts Engraving Company, and Mr. "Charlie" Ianello of Harvard Studios, and their respective co-laborers, we extend our sincere appreciation. We want you to feel that this high type production is more than a summation of set goals and standards; that it is a monumental tribute to your life's perspective, a needful and lasting contribution to society.

Thank you very kindly,
